AMERICAN GUILD OF ORGANISTS—TWIN CITIES CHAPTER

Pipe Organ Discovery Day Feb. 26, 2011 – St. Paul, Minnesota Church of St. John the Evangelist & Church of St. Clement

Pipe Organ Discovery Day is a program of the Education Committee of the TCAGO and is free to participants. Young artists, and their parents as well, are encouraged to attend.

Pipe Organ Discovery Day provides students with previous piano or organ experience an opportunity to learn more about the instrument and very importantly to expand their knowledge with “hands on” experience on a variety of instruments.

As part of the day’s events, Michael Barone, host of MPR’s Pipedreams program and organ builder Charles Hendrickson will present a program that highlights unique features of historic Minnesota organs.

The program runs from 9:30 AM to 3:00 PM and starts at the Church of St. John the Evangelist located at 60 Kent Street at Portland Avenue – one block north of Summit Avenue.

Pizza lunch is included. Registration form and a full schedule of events for the day can be found at the TCAGO web-

Lisztomania- Part I

By K.R. Kasling

On Friday, February 25 at 8:00 PM, a concert commemorating the 200th anniversary of Franz Liszt's birth will take place at the Basilica of St. Mary, Minneapolis. "Lisztomania" is a term coined by a 20th-century musicologist to describe the flamboyant concert life Liszt assumed for part of his career, complete with processions in his honor when entering a city, perfumed gloves tossed to audiences and more. However, Liszt also had a deeply religious and contemplative side which provided great solace particularly when the loss of two of his children devastated him. Finally, Liszt was a very forward-looking composer in much of his oeuvre, anticipating 20th century musical techniques over half a century in advance. Atonality, proto-Impressionistic techniques, dissonant harmony, experiments with form were all present from the 1850s on.

The February 25th concert will explore Liszt's more contemplative and experimental approaches. The composer's Missa Choralis for mixed choirs and organ will be performed by the St. John's University/College of St. Benedict Chamber Choir (50 voices) under the direction of Axel Theimer. Solo organ works, Evocation a la Chapelle Sixtine.... and Einleitung (Introduction), Fuge und Magnificat aus der Symphonie zu Dante's "Divina Commedia" will be the large solo organ works performed. Some short atonal piano pieces transcribed for organ will also be heard. Organists will be Dr. K.R. Kasling and Matthew Anderson.

The program will not exceed 70 minutes; a freewill offering will be received.

In early June, a program of major solo Liszt works will be presented at the Basilica-Lisztomania II. Details of this program will appear in Pipenotes' May edition. Please join us for both events. 🎵

Happy New Year to All!

Michael Barone

Dean's Column

Welcome to the New Year.

Now that everyone has had a month to recover from all the activities that took place during December, we can now all look forward to the activities of Pass-over, Holy Week and Easter. Just think about how many centuries the lives of musicians have been governed by feast days of a religious calendar. We carry on these same yearly rhythms while adapting all the traditions to the times.

From February and beyond the TCAGO Board will occupy itself with two major items. The first is creating a nominating committee, a slate of candidates and an election for its officers and the board class of 2011-2012. Please let us know if you are willing to serve. The board consists of a wonderful group of people who are committed to the TCAGO mission.

The major effort, however, will be the development of a budget for next year. Since TCAGO belongs to all its members, we would like to hear from you about what activities you think we should undertake, what changes we should make in the way we operate, and how we can assist in fulfilling your professional needs. Provide us with concrete suggestions we can attempt to implement. My hope is that there will be so many ideas, that it will take us years to implement them all.

Since we have added some new committees and restructured our finances, as you have already read about in previous Pipenotes, we have a number of new opportunities. But there are also a number of challenges. The primary one I see is declining membership. I would like to suggest that it is everyone's duty to recruit new members and to be sure that members renew when the time comes to do so. Bring a nonmember to one of our events to introduce them to what we do and to the people involved.

The emphasis for this year has been on hospitality. I am sure you have noticed this at the events you have attended and in the welcoming calls to those of you who are new members.

Those of you with organ students, make sure all your students become AGO members. Contact our registrar, Barb Herzog, to arrange for this. Invite them to attend one or more of our events. Introduce them to other TCAGO members.

In the interest of transparency, you will notice that we will be regularly posting the minutes of the board meetings on the TCAGO website. This will include a summary of our finances.

Listeners can log in to rate tracks and albums as well as leave comments on the same. Organlive plays albums recorded on pipe, digital, and combination organs played by the world's best concert organists, as well as tracks recorded and submitted by less renowned organists. Included are pairings of organ and orchestra, solo instruments, choir, or vocal solos. The listener is presented with the work title, composer, album title, a link to purchase the album or MP3 online, the organ, its builder, size, and location, and a link to the specification of the organ being heard, and often a link to public domain copy of the sheet music of the work.

Listeners may browse the entire library searching by work, composer, organist, album, or organ and request tracks to be played. On Sundays the station features hymns, choral anthems, and music of the church. Monday's playlist consists of music from the 19th and 20th centuries. Wednesdays are all-baroque music, and Fridays feature the best music from our library, as rated by the listeners.

The station has been continually funded by the listeners, and an annual budget covering all operating expenses is raised every spring. Organlive is always accepting submissions for new music from organists, composers and publishers. To listen to Organlive, or for more information on submitting your music, visit www.organlive.com.

1446 to Shepard of the Valley Lutheran Church in Apple Valley, Minnesota. The organ consultant for the Church is John Ferguson, from St. Olaf College. The Church has engaged The Holtkamp Organ Company of Cleveland, OH, to remove, refurbish and reinstall the organ. The removal of the instrument will begin in mid January, 2011. Opus 1446 will be rebuilt and restored in Cleveland and then reinstalled in Apple Valley. Approximate time for the reinstallation is late summer of 2011.

Twin receptions were held on the afternoon and evening of November 19, at Macalester College, for the congregation to see, hear and learn first hand about the instrument before the work begins. Presenters included Shepard of the Valley Pastor, Rev. Christopher Smith; Kathleen Murray, Provost and Dean of the Faculty at Macalester College; a representative of the organ committee; John Ferguson, organ consultant for the Church; and Chris Holtkamp of The Holtkamp Organ Company.

The new home of Opus 1446 is a significantly larger space than the concert hall where it stands today – about three times as large. The instrument, when reinstalled, will have a new console, many of the pipes will be rescaled, some new pipes and wind lines will be added. Four ranks of pipes will remain “as is” in the new space. The blower and bellows will be reused. Many of the reeds will be replaced. 🎵

TCAGO Archive News

"Minnesota AGO Through the Decades" 1940s

Jerry Bonstrom, Archivist

I've edited and compiled the following notes from minutes of meetings taken by secretaries Earl Barr, Henry Engen, Florence Hudson and Jean McIntyre

- The January 8, 1940 AGO meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bremer on 145 Amherst St. in St. Paul. Sixty-five members and friends attended. After a buffet dinner, the evening's entertainment was an "Information Please" program. Bob DeHaven, production manager of radio station WTCN, was "Mr. Fadiman." Stanley Avery, Arthur Jennings, R. Buchanan Morton, Leonard Smith, et al. participated in answering questions about musical topics. Following this, Mrs. Bremer played several recordings of "Church Music Appreciation" broadcasts, which series she directs on Sunday evenings over station WTCN. (Was this the 1940s equivalent of "Pipedreams"?)
 - Mr. and Mrs. Bremer hosted the Minnesota AGO at their homes on other occasions, e.g., October 1938, January and April of 1941 and at their Forest Lake summer home in July, 1940 and 1941.
- On April 15, 1940 AGO members and guests were at St. Paul's Evangelical Church for a dinner and recital played by Mario Salvador. It was his first Twin Cities appearance. The recital was sponsored by Wicks Organ Co. Mr. Salvador returned to play at House of Hope Presbyterian Church for our December 3, 1940 meeting.
- May 14, 1940 was the date for the annual meeting which was held at the U of M. Thirty-one members and friends attended. Two students of organ professor Arthur Jennings performed at the Music Building.
- The Minnesota AGO were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Iverson for the October 21, 1940 meeting. They had recently installed in their home a 22 rank main organ and an echo section of 4 ranks. S. Willis Johnson, organist and choirmaster at Gethsemane Episcopal Church, played "Benedictus" by M. Reger, Adagio and Finale from the Sixth Symphony by C. Widor, et al.
- The January 13, 1942 dinner meeting was at Port's Tea Room in St. Paul. Thirty-one members and friends were present. Following this meeting, Dean George Fairclough and his wife invited the AGO to their home at 844 Fairmount Ave. in St. Paul. Former choir members from Mr. Fairclough's church, St. John the Evangelist, performed: a boy soloist, a violinist, and a pianist. (Mr. Fairclough left Minnesota in 1943 and moved with his wife to San Francisco, California to be near their daughter.)
- February 23, 1943 dinner meeting was held in Coffman Memorial Union at the U of M. Alexander Schreiner spoke about his work at the Salt Lake City Tabernacle. The meeting then moved to Northrop Auditorium where Mr. Schreiner played a recital on the Northrop organ. (See Pipenotes "Archive News" for March, 2009.)
- Thirty-eight members were present for the May 27, 1944 meeting held at Gethsemane Episcopal Church in Minneapolis. Dean Arthur Jennings spoke of the problems in maintaining active interest in the Guild maybe because it's divided between two cities involving long traveling distances under present conditions. ("Present conditions" may be a reference to WWII and public transportation.) He suggested the appointment of a membership committee.
- Our April 2, 1945 meeting was held at the U of M at the Center of Continuation Study. Mr. Lewis Elmer, Warden [President] of the AGO was the guest of honor. (The minutes do not express what was said. His visit may've been a promotion for the Subscriber's/Artist's Series.)
- There was another dinner meeting at Coffman on February 1, 1946. Following the meeting, Earnest White played an organ recital at Northrop Auditorium.
- Dinner was served at Coffman a few months later—May 21, 1946—at 6:30 followed by our AGO annual meeting at 7:30. There was no recital at Northrop, though. A lecture and slides on church architecture was given by Roy Boe of the U of M Architectural School.
- October 27, 1946 was the opening season program at Central Lutheran Church, Minneapolis. Dinner was served in the parish house. The honored guests were Marcel Dupré and his daughter. Following dinner, the Duprés played a joint organ and piano recital in the sanctuary.
- The November, 1947 AGO meeting was a console party at the Northrop Organ console. Arthur Jennings spoke about organ construction. Jennings and Edward Berryman played several selections.
- February 1st, 1947, Virgil Fox played a recital at Northrop Auditorium. Dinner in his honor was at Bryans Tea Room. "We heard some of the most thrilling playing. It was a treat." On February 9, members of AGO heard an interesting service sung by the Boy Choir at the Basilica where John J. Beck was the organist/choir director. Supper afterwards was at the Hampshire Arms Hotel.

- The annual meeting was held on May 26, 1947 at St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed Church, St. Paul. Dinner was served in the parish house. Officers were elected and there was discussion about the possibility of having the General Convention in Minneapolis next spring. After the meeting, Earl Barr—organist at St. Paul's—played a recital.
- October 10, 1947 was a combined meeting with Twin Cities Choirmasters. Dinner was at the Minneapolis Y.M.C.A. Endorsed by AGO National, discussion continued from the last meeting about the Subscriber [Artists] Series. The executive committee would select the people to play. After the business meeting, Rupert Sircom played an organ recital at Westminster Presbyterian Church.
- Gloria Dei Lutheran Church in St. Paul hosted the Minnesota AGO for dinner and a console party on November 17, 1947. Accompaniments to anthems were demonstrated by several members: Ed Berryman, Mary Fellows, Eugene Frey and Earl Barr.

Unfortunately, I found no minutes for 1948-49

- We hosted the AGO Region VI Convention, June 14–16, 1949. The Curtis Hotel was the Convention hotel. No brochure was found but there are April 19, 1949 minutes of a convention committee meeting held at the home of Mary and Arthur Fellows. Dan Thomas was the general chairman of the convention. Others on the committee were Byron Arneson, Albert Ely, Henry Engen, Mary Fellows, Ernst Galbraith, Tom Johnson, Paul Sundquist and Robert Wolf. Virgil Fox was to perform on the Auditorium organ, June 15, but Harry Iverson expressed uncertainty as to the use of the organ because of organ repair issues. 5,000 tickets were to be printed. (In the first issue of Pipenotes, there's a review of Virgil Fox playing a recital on the Minneapolis Auditorium organ on December 1, 1949.)
- The first issue of Pipenotes was published in December of 1949. ♪

Concert CD Available

This is to let you know about a remarkable live concert recording of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," featuring Frederick Swann as organist and John Walker as conductor. The performance also features the Chancel Choir of Brown Memorial Park Avenue Presbyterian Church in Baltimore.

Frederick Swann, the distinguished past president of the AGO, demonstrates his legendary skill at oratorio accompaniment as he plays Brown Memorial's historic 1931 Skinner organ, recently restored to original specifications.

John Walker presently serves as the AGO's vice president. He is Minister of Music at Brown Memorial Park Avenue Church.

The concert drew high accolades from a wide variety of sources.

"A superbly performed, memorable concert ... I have seldom been so struck by a total musical experience" – Eileen Guenther, President, American Guild of Organists and Professor of Sacred Music at Wesley Seminary.
 "The soloists melted my heart with their musicianship" – Deborah Woods, organist and choir director.

The 3-CD set is $15. To order, please go to: www.browndowntown.org. For additional information, call 410-523-1542. Orders will be filled and shipped immediately upon receipt.

More responses to the concert:

"The soloists sang with extraordinary intelligence and artistry. The singers' strong sense of ensemble made this performance particularly memorable."

"Frederick Swann showed why his skill with accompaniment is renowned. It was as if he had extra-sensory perception, anticipating each singer's intention and providing a foundation from which he or she could soar."

Eileen Guenther: "I heard the rushing of the water and the flicker of the flames in the countless notes Frederick Swann played." She noted "the hundreds of piston changes it took to create various effects."

"[I want to especially acknowledge] John Walker's expert pacing and his ability to get highly nuanced emotional expression from his finely prepared choir."

"About twenty-five years ago I sang 'Elijah' with the Mendelssohn Choir under André Previn. John Shirley-Quirk was Elijah. In 2004 I sang 'Elijah' with the Choral Society of Durham under Rodney Wynkoop. Sanford Sylvan was Elijah. So when I tell you that Sunday's performance was the most totally fulfilling and satisfying 'Elijah' I've ever experienced, I want you to know that I've set the bar pretty high."

"The organ music was sublime; the choir was so crisp that I could understand the text. All of the performance was wonderful, wonderful!"

"This CD gives me goosebumps. I think I've worn out the fifth track, 'If With All Your Hearts,' which was truly sung from the heart.

Principal presenters and recitalists were: Cristina García Banegas (who performed at the Basilica in Minneapolis during the 2008 Convention) from Uruguay; Guy Bovet who, in the '80s and '90s with the support of UNESCO and the Church of San Jerónimo, Oaxaca, Mexico

Swiss PRO HELVETIA, led field projects in the surveying and cataloguing of many historic organs throughout Mexico and Brazil; and Barbara Owen. The 58 participants represented a variety of musical disciplines and other professions, something that contributed to the rich cultural matrix of the festival and the congenial conviviality among participants!

Why Oaxaca? This region hosts one of the world's most remarkable in situ collections of historic organs in the Spanish Baroque style. The first imported instruments, considered soon after the Conquest to be important aids in the evangelization process, were presumably simple table organs transported by hired carriers to the remote mountain villages of Oaxaca state, whose economy later flourished largely due to the cochineal (red dye) trade. Many organs, like the churches and their amazing art and artifacts, were built locally. It is thought that there may have been as many as 1,000 organs installed in churches in Oaxaca and neighboring Puebla from the mid-16th to the late-19th centu-

In Memory of Neil Carlson

by Michael Barone

TCAGO Colleagues,

We have lost a great friend of the pipe organ. Neil Carlson, a retired (yet tireless) railroad engineer and life-long organ tinkerer and recital attender, died on Dec. 23, 2010 at age 71. I'd gotten conversational with Neil only in the past few years. The things he knew (about history, local culture, technology, and the organ scene) astounded me, yet he was the most down-to-earth fellow I've ever met. In the reception line after Chelsea Chen's recent appearance at Bethel University, I opened with the usual "How are you?" His undramatic response: "Yesterday the doctor told me I have Stage 4 pancreatic cancer and he doesn't think I'll see Christmas." The prediction proved all too true.

<http://www.facebook.com/group.php?gid=140569140766#!/group.php?gid=140569140766&v=wall>

Who is Neil Carlson, you might ask? Check the Neil Carlson Appreciation/Memorial Facebook page for some background. That page was started by Michael Hey, the young organist from Wisconsin who won our TCAGO Organ Competition two years ago (and is now a scholarship student at Juilliard).

If you recall seeing a stalwart gentleman dressed in "engineer's formal" (denim bib overalls and a grey or blue tee-shirt), that was Neil. Open of mind, perceptive of observation, deep in intelligence, and unabridged in opinion, Neil sought out the best performers in the best (and sometimes least likely) places. He has been a fixture of the local theatre organ scene since the late 1950s. Since retirement, his major activity had been attending organ concerts. Two years ago, as his opinion of NWA's maintenance program declined, and he elected to drive rather than fly to east-coast activities (He kept a room in Philadelphia to facilitate access to concerts in NYC, Maryland, Washington, DC, Portland, etc....), he put 47,000 miles on his Plymouth Breeze. This is enthusiasm, this is dedication.

Neil was generous of his time and intelligence, supportive of and encouraging to young performers. When the return of the Kuhn organ to Alice Tully Hall was confirmed and the re-inaugural recital announced, Neil was one of the first to purchase a ticket. His front-and-center seat was sadly empty for Paul Jacob's recital on November 16....Neil already was too ill to travel.

His was a unique presence and character (well, in a way, we all are unique...but Neil stood out, perhaps it was the overalls)...and he will be missed.

The funeral service took place on December 30 at Mount Calvary Lutheran Church in Excelsior. 🎵 ries. Sadly, most have been lost through abandonment and neglect, pillaging and vandalism. To date, seven of these visually stunning organs have been fully restored, each offering a uniquely colorful and engagingly present, magnificent sound. Sixty-two others exist in varying degrees of conservation, including some nearly complete organs that have been identified for possible future reconstruction/restoration.

Following on the pioneering work of Guy Bovet and other restorers, most notably Susan Tattershall who, during the 1990s restored several of these organs, the Instituto de Órganos Históricos de Oaxaca (IOHIO) was established in 2000 as a non-profit organization to protect and conserve these historic instruments and to ensure that they are heard and appreciated. Cicely Winter, one of the two founders, an American pianist who has resided in Oaxaca for many years with her husband Marcus, an archaeologist with the (Mexican) National Institute of Anthropology and History, continues to be the principal agent of inspiration and organization for the Institute, and certainly for the Festival. Integral aspects of the Institute's work include: networking with music scholars and organists; involvement and support of local people in order to encourage recognition of these organs as part of their own patrimony; and a music (piano and organ) education project for young people.

Why was I interested? Spanish-Mexican Baroque music might be a niche interest among American work-a-day organists, particularly because of construction (divided/short keyboard) and registration specifications and particular cultural affects; however, as several articles in TAO (e.g., David T. Troiano: Early Spanish Organ Genres: Finding Their Place in the Modern Church, TAO, May 2009, pp. 60 – 68) and a recent local organ performance have demonstrated, this music is worthy of our attention and could be a vibrant part of our working repertory!

What was it like? The Festival began with two lengthy and detailed masterclasses offered by Guy Bovet in the fantastically decorated Church of San Jerónimo in Tlacoahuaya, a village neighboring Oaxaca City. A Los Angeles organist joined Cicely Winter, IOHIO Festival Director, and other Mexican organ students from various regions of the country to perform a variety of repertory by such composers as Durón, Bruna, Cabanilles and Correa de Arauxo.

As transportation schedules did tend to run on Mexican time, the deliciously leisurely lunches could become a little pressed as, for instance, to make the opening reception in the splendid Burgoa Library of the former convent of San Domingo, including an address by the host of the weekly Mexican radio program His Majesty the Organ and a guided visit to a new exhibition chronologically highlighting documents from the Oaxaca organ archives collection.

In addition to concert organ performances in various village churches and the Oaxaca Cathedral, evening concerts also included a local virtuoso organ and trombone duo and the fine vocal ensemble Capilla Virreinal de la Nueva España, featuring sacred choral music recently discovered in a neighboring village by IOHIO. Two outstanding young performers, a guitarist and percussionist, were also featured among the concert performers, even in an improvised ensemble concert with Guy Bovet.

Two days were devoted to visits to restored and unrestored organs in Oaxaca and outlying villages where residents often offered us a warm welcome. One village hosted a fiesta with brass band and dancing, plenty of home-distilled mezcal, and a lavish feast of local specialties.

Our last day offered a reprieve from the 8:30 a.m. – 10:00 p.m. daily schedule, including an opportunity to play the organ of the resplendent Basílica de la Soledad.

The Festival continued for two additional days with an overnight journey to visit a variety of organs in the 7,000-foot high Mixteca Alta region, culminating in a concert by Guy Bovet in Santa Maria Tlaxiaco on a beautiful 8' instrument, the only restored 19th century organ in Oaxaca State.

Opening a window onto the rich legacy of Mexican Baroque organ music – especially for those unfamiliar with this music and these instruments - the Festival was musically and culturally exhilarating, and the diverse group of participants made for an invigorating exchange of ideas and many new friendships.

TCAGO Oral History Project "Memories"

Jerry Bonstrom, Archivist

Imagine what it would be like to hear the voice of George Fairclough being interviewed about our first meeting in 1910 or maybe Marion Austin Dunn talking about AGO in the '20s or Marion Hutchinson talking about the 1930s or Arthur Jennings regaling us with AGO stories from the '40s or... Future listeners to the interviews from our Oral History Project may be left with a strong impression of people, places and the TCAGO of 2010. Too bad there wasn't the means or maybe the inclination for an oral history project in our early history.

The two people who I interviewed have both been TCAGO

Deans. Diana Lee Lucker and James Biery talked about what they gained from participation in the Guild. The leitmotif/main theme seems to be; connecting with and support of colleagues. Diana Lee said that she's served in many capacities in Guild positions. "[It's] been very educational and rewarding," she said. Her students are strongly encouraged to be active and to participate in TCAGO functions.

James became interested in organ as a child hearing the small 1930s Reuter organ from his home church and then studying with Roger Arnold. Jim called the lessons an immersion in music ministry. "And that's where I really got hooked on this whole thing."

Diana Lee studied piano with her mother who was a concert pianist. When she was eleven, her grandfather who built pipe organs, suggested that she take organ lessons "and I thought, well that would be fun."

In the two year terms as Dean, maybe their influence—as Jim said—should be left to others. Consider, though, that during Jim's time from 1998-2000, he signed the application for the national convention that we hosted in 2008. Phil Asgian and Westminster Presbyterian Church started working on Pipe Organ Encounters while he was dean. Diana Lee—2002-2004—suggested having an online version of Pipenotes. Diana Lee was the executive assistant for our '08 convention and she worked on the other national conventions that we hosted in 1954 and 1980.

James said that his church job hasn't changed much but is aware that he's been in a unique position as a minister of music at the St. Paul Cathedral (Having left Minnesota, he's still in a traditional setting at Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan.). He mentions that the whole world of church music has changed, though, saying that the assumption that the organ is the instrument for the church may no longer be the case.

In 1986, James was the prize-winner with the highest score on the FAGO exam administered by the AGO. He credits a teacher, Walter Hilse, with help in studying for the exam.

Dianna Lee has been an associate professor of music at Augsburg College. She has a doctorate from the University of Minnesota and has been the music director at Wayzata Community Church for 15 years. It's been a heavily administrative position but she has an opportunity to perform in the Music Series which can include playing great literature with an orchestra..."and it's just been a marvelous, marvelous fifteen years!"

It was an honor to converse with two highly educated former TCAGO deans. Their interviews call attention to organists' options. They have added interest to our history and will give future listeners/readers a great impression of TCAGO in 2010.

In 100 years, a few of the voices of the 2010 TCAGO won't need to be imagined. They'll be "live on tape." ♪
