Mid-Winter Tune-up

Saturday, January 16, 9:00 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.
Minnesota Public Radio UBS Forum, St. Paul

The theme of this year’s Tune-up, co-sponsored by TCAGO and Pipedreams, is “Regional and Historic Organs and American Church Music.” Presenters will be Kim Kasling, Sr. Anita Smisek, OP, and Paul Westermeyer.

8:30-9:00 a.m. – Hospitality

9:00-10:00 a.m. – Dr. Kim Kasling –
“175 Years of Organ History in Central Minnesota”
Kim Kasling will provide a visual narration of the rich history of organ building in central Minnesota, a history influenced strongly by early German settlers and the work of the Benedictines. He is a Professor of Music, University Organist and Director of Liturgical Music Studies at St. John’s University, Collegeville.

10:15-11:15 a.m. – Sr. Anita Smisek, OP –
“Czech and Czech/American Church Music”
A specialist in Czech music Sr. Anita will share highlights of her discoveries and publications of Czech church music. A Dominican nun, she has a great love of Czech and Slovak traditional music, which she shares as a singer and a music publisher. She specializes in providing recordings, sheet music, and translations of all kinds of music from the Czech Republic and Slovakia.

11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. – Dr. Paul Westermeyer – “An overview of Westermeyer’s and David Music’s new book, Church Music in the United States, 1760-1901, its genesis, responses, implications, and discussion”
Paul Westermeyer is Emeritus Professor of Church Music at Luther Seminary in St. Paul, where he taught, served as the Cantor, and directed the Master of Sacred Music degree program with St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minnesota. He is an ordained Lutheran pastor in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. His publications relate to his lifelong interest in theological, musical, and liturgical intersections.

This event is free and open to the public.

People
As you who were there know, the TCAGO organ crawl on October 24, like other organ crawls, not only attracted organ enthusiasts and musicians. People came from the churches and their surrounding neighborhoods, some of whom tell you that they know little or nothing about music or organs. A week or so before that, my brother-in-law, one of those who profess this lack of knowledge and thinks he cannot sing at all, sent me a long article about organs from his local paper – as he has done before. Several months earlier I was at my Seminary class reunion sitting next to a former classmate at a worship service. He did not sing a note, just as in chapel services when we were students. Then I recalled the people in the churches I have served who did not sing. I can add to this list a former colleague with little or no musical training who has collected many recordings of classical music.

All of these people understand and appreciate more about music and organs than they say they do. My brother-in-law asks intelligent questions. He came to a choral concert I conducted, and afterward asked about a piece which he identified like this: “In the second half of the program, that piece which came around to the beginning again….” He was hearing the music’s form. The colleague with the record collection compares different interpretations of the same symphony with more insight than many musicians. My Seminary classmate and most of the folks in churches who don’t sing are appreciative of musicians and the music we are responsible for. Sometimes their comments are pretty perceptive.

These are the people in the communities we serve. Some of them are musical experts. Some know little about music in a formal sense. Some find music very important. In the October 28 issue of The Christian Century, twelve people gave a wide spread of experiences related to “song.” And, yes, some people have less appreciative points of view, like C.S. Lewis. He disliked music – or at least music in church – and especially hymn singing (which he called “shouting”). People in his mold prefer what has been called “Low Mass,” spoken services from the Book of Common Prayer, less historically-liturgical forms of worship that only use speech, like those of Ulrich Zwingli or the worship of Quakers. All of these groups, in their communal practice, invariably push toward a musical expression, but that does not deny the individuals who prefer silence and words without music. They are present in all of our communities.

This wide and colorful spectrum characterizes individuals who together make up the communities we serve. The culture presupposes that everything is controlled by likes and dislikes and that we can tabulate these to determine how to win the largest statistical metric. One of the problems with this presupposition is the people in our communities: they have this engagingly-diverse array of likes, dislikes, knowledge, abilities, and appreciative or less appreciative thoughts about music. They don’t match the flat and bland skew of our statistical tabulations, agendas, or simplistic notions. This disjuncture is one of the things that continually reminds us of our constructively subversive responsibility. It is not to serve statistics, agendas, or simplistic solutions. It is to serve real people (delightfully!).

1981-82 Season

Our first meeting of the season was at 7:30 p.m. on September 13, 1981. We met at Central Lutheran Church where we participated in a Vesper Service and re-dedication of the facility, which had been remodeled recently. During the service, the Central Lutheran choir sang Benjamin Britten’s Rejoice in the Lamb.

Following worship, hors d’oeuvres prepared by TCAGO members were served. Also, there was a used-music sale in the choir room.

On October 11, we went on a bus trip to Rochester to hear the new Hendrickson organ at First Unitarian Universalist Church. Jeff Davis was our host. Jeff Dane was our host at the second location, Zumbro Lutheran Church, where we heard the Skinner/Sipe organ.

Daniel Roth and Gerd Zacher were two artists who played at Plymouth Congregational Church in November, 1981. It was the inaugural season of the new 89-rank Holtkamp organ. Daniel Roth played an all-French program on November 8 and Gerd Zacher played pieces by Buxtehude, Bach, Mendelssohn, Ligeti, and Schönberg on November 15. TCAGO co-sponsored a workshop at Plymouth on November 14, from 9:00 a.m. to noon, where Mr. Zacher presented an “Approach to Organ Music since 1920.”

Our next meeting was on January 8, 1982. It was advertised as a Christmas Madrigal Feast at the AAUW’s [American Association of University Women] Club House in Minneapolis. The Abbey Minstrels from Duluth entertained and enlightened us with an evening of old world music. The chef and... staff at AAUW provided the dinner feast for $12.50, which included wine.

We were in St. Paul for the next meeting which also occurred in January – on the 30th. We met at the World Theater to join in a live radio program entitled Prairie Home Companion. [It celebrates its 40th anniversary this year and now broadcasts from the Fitzgerald Theater.] In 1982, Garrison Keillor shared with us his thoughts on church music from experiences at Lake Wobegone. Following the show, there was a reception.

The Music of Hugo Distler was the title for the next meeting at University Baptist Church in Minneapolis on March 22. Larry Palmer from Southern Methodist University, regarded as a Hugo Distler expert, was our guest lecturer. He shared his insights on Distlers’ choral and organ music. Martha Pittenger performed several of the organ works and the University Baptist choir performed Distler’s choral work, Totentanz. This was a joint meeting of the TCAGO and the TCCA [Twin Cities Choirmasters Association].

Our final meeting of the season was held on May 17, 1982 at Plymouth Congregational Church. We met at 6:30 to begin the evening with a potluck supper in Jackson Hall. Because this was a celebration of Norwegian Independence Day, we were asked to bring a Norwegian treat. There was special entertainment followed by election of TCAGO officers for the next season. Following dinner, an 8:00 p.m. program in the sanctuary honored Heinrich Fleischer. Dr. Fleischer retired from the University of Minnesota in 1982. Philip Brunelle performed three organ works that had been recently commissioned for the Plymouth organ.

A Letter received from the AGO office

Paul Westermeyer, Dean

Dear TCAGO members,

On November 12, James Thomashower, the Executive Director of the AGO, sent AGO leaders a letter which said that “The Federal Trade Commission has contacted the American Guild of Organists concerning certain provisions in our Code of Ethics and other documents that the FTC Staff believes may restrain competition,” that “this inquiry is much like the FTC’s inquiry of the Music Teachers National Association, Inc., and several other associations,” and that we are required to “retain documents (both hard-copy and electronic) that may relate to the FTC’s letter.”

If you want further information, I’ll be glad to supply what I have received (this is a “non-public inquiry,” so there is no information on the AGO website), though I can’t tell you much more than what the quotes indicate. The issue in a nutshell seems to relate to the first three rules of the AGO’s Code of Ethics:

1. good working relationships;
2. not seeking employment in a position held by someone else; and
3. obtaining approval of the incumbent musician before accepting an engagement for a wedding, funeral or other service requested by a third party. – because they lessen competition.
An Announcement from Craig Cramer
At the moment I am recruiting students for our Master of Sacred Music and Doctor of Musical Arts in Organ programs at the University of Notre Dame. We are extremely excited about what is going on here.

The MSM degree at Notre Dame is an ecumenical, interdisciplinary program that aims to lead the international conversation about the arts and the liturgy. The degree combines music (two organ recitals, organ literature, music history) and liturgy courses. There are details of the program on the website:

http://sacredmusic.nd.edu/master-of-sacred-music/

There are six organ students in the MSM program – three in each class. The program is highly competitive, and the level of playing is extremely high. The assistantships pay full tuition for two years plus a stipend of $12,500 per year for two years. Typically a student on an assistantship works in the Basilica of the Sacred Heart on campus.

All students in our MSM program are supported with tuition grants. If you know of any prospective undergraduate students or others who are not currently enrolled in a graduate program, I would appreciate hearing from you. If you have any names to suggest, I am happy to contact them.

Our DMA program launched three years ago. Details of the program can be found at: http://sacredmusic.nd.edu/doctor-of-musical-arts/

Our Fritts organ and organ hall are stunning. We have an eclectic-style tracker organ in the Basilica of the Sacred Heart that will be replaced in January 2017. You can see the Fritts at http://performingarts.nd.edu/about/reyes.aspx

If you know of anyone who might be interested in applying, I am happy to hear from you. Or, give the prospective student my email address and/or phone number.

Many thanks for your help, and all the best,

STEPHEN HAMILTON
Concert Organist

An excellent performance of the Bach “Parsacaglia and Fugue in C Minor” (was) given by Stephen Hamilton who obviously knew the (Bogen) organ’s sonorous capabilities and brought them powerfully to bear in a rousing account. He took serious risks with accents of duration at one point, lingering on strong beats, but succeeded in enhancing the effect of teeming culmination that lies at the heart of this work. —The New York Times is the official publication of the Twin Cities Chapter, American Guild of Organists, and is published nine times a year, September through June. December and January are combined.

Deadline date

Information for Pipenotes should be received no later than the fifteenth of the month preceding publication.

Materials may be sent to Merritt Nequette, editor.

Letters to the Editor

Signed Letters to the Editor are always welcome.

Mail letters to Merritt Nequette.

Pipedreams

For a listing of organ events statewide, access the Pipedreams Organ Calendar. For both on-air and website listings of organ-related activities, please send information to Michael Barone, or to Pipedreams Calendar, 480 Cedar St., St. Paul, MN 55101.

MPR

Classical Minnesota Public Radio encourages you to enter your classical music performance events in the MPR online calendar.

On the top bar of the general MPR web page, click on “Events,” then “Events Calendar,” then “Classical Music.” However, if you find yourself on the Classical MPR main page, click on “More,” then “Events,” then “Classical Music.”

In either case, once on the page that lists Classical Music Events, if you wish to add your own upcoming activity, under the headline for “Calendar Events Home” at the top of the page you should find an additional prompt for “Submit Event.” Fill in all appropriate boxes (and check to see if your venue is already logged into the system, which might save you some time).

Note that this MPR Calendar information will reach a different audience than that submitted to Barone for posting on the TCAGO/Pipedreams calendar pages. Both are free, the one a self-service feature and a separate vehicle by which you can let people (including the Classical MPR program hosts) know about your classical music concerts.

By all means, continue to send information directly to Michael Barone too!!

We also encourage you to regularly request organ selections on the “Friday Favorites” show with Steven Staruch. Encourage and promote the inclusion of more organ music in MPR’s programming!
